

Mandy Chessell FREng CEng FBCS

IBM Distinguished Engineer Chief Architect, InfoSphere Tools
Information Platform & Solutions

Visiting Professor, Department of Computer Science, University of Sheffield

Amanda (Mandy) Chessell is a computer scientist and a Distinguished Engineer at IBM. She has a record of prolific middleware inventiveness and has been awarded the title of IBM Master Inventor. She is also a Member of the IBM Academy of Technology.

Outside IBM, Mandy Chessell is the first woman to be awarded the Royal Academy of Engineering Silver Medal and has subsequently been elected as a Fellow of the Royal Academy, a very high honour in engineering.