

Sophie Dipple Engineering student University of Warwick

A mechanical engineering student from the University of Warwick. Sophie is part of the third year Formula Student team and is designing an optimised crash structure which will be manufactured using innovative laser sintering technology